

CALL FOR PAPERS

Fédération Internationale des Femmes de Carrières Juridiques - FIFCJ

Brazilian Association of Women in Legal Careers - ABMCJ

Theme of the Collective Work: "Artificial Intelligence and Gender: Multiple Looks"

The Fédération Internationale des Femmes de Carrières Juridiques - FIFCJ, by its President Manoela Gonçalves Silva, in partnership with the Brazilian Association of Women in Legal Careers - ABMCJ, invites researchers, and other professionals in law and related areas to submit scientific articles to compose the collective work entitled "Artificial Intelligence and Gender". The selected articles will be presented at the XXV FIFCJ Congress, which will take place on May 27 and 28, 2025, in Brasilia.

Thematic lines:

1.Impacts of Artificial Intelligence on Gender Inequalities: This line of research seeks to discuss the broad repercussions of artificial intelligence on gender inequalities. Articles should explore how emerging AI technologies are transforming diverse areas, such as the labor market, political representation, online violence, accessibility to essential services, among others. AI can both widen and reduce gender disparities, so it is critical to investigate its implications in areas such as digital platforms, remote work, automation, facial recognition, and the ways in which it affects the participation, inclusion and exclusion of women and LGBTQIA+ people in the public and private space.

Line 1 rationale: AI plays a growing role in various spheres of life, from the workplace to digital communication. However, its applications often carry gender biases, often replicating or intensifying existing inequalities. This line aims to foster an interdisciplinary discussion that makes it possible to understand how these technological systems affect gender equity, and what can be done to mitigate these negative impacts.

2. Intersection between Artificial Intelligence, Gender and Privacy: In this line, the authors are invited to explore the challenges imposed by AI in relation to privacy, especially in the context of the General Data Protection Law (LGPD) and other surveillance and data collection systems. Articles should focus on the disproportionate implications these technologies can have on women and LGBTQIA+ people, considering aspects such as digital monitoring, data profiling, and the impact of data protection policies on their lives. In addition, it is important to investigate the ethical and legal challenges, as well as the participation of these populations in the formulation of protection and privacy policies.

Line 2 rationale: As AI becomes a prevalent tool in data collection and digital monitoring, there is concern about how these systems address privacy issues, especially for vulnerable groups. Women and LGBTQIA+ people are particularly exposed to these challenges, facing risks related to surveillance and invasion of privacy that can reinforce discrimination. This line aims to stimulate a discussion about the ethical and legal dilemmas surrounding data protection and the ways to build a more inclusive and protective AI.

Rules for Article Submission:

1. Event Participation: Only articles from individuals registered for the 25th FIFCJ Congress will be accepted. Registration for the event is a mandatory requirement for article submission and will be verified prior to the evaluation of the works.

2. Eligibility: Articles must be unpublished and demonstrate a clear relationship with one of the two proposed thematic lines, exploring in a thorough and original way the challenges and implications of artificial intelligence in the context of gender.

3. Format:

- a. Size: 15 to 20 pages (including references), with citations in the Author/Date system.
- b. File format: Word (.doc or .docx).
- c. Format: A4 size sheet.
- d. Font: Times New Roman, size 12, spacing 1.5 (except long quotes, which must be in font 11, with single spacing).
- a. Indentation: First line of paragraphs with indentation 1.5 cm.
